Why does it matter what stories we tell about the past, and how we tell them?